[City AM] The City is thirsty for more detail from Reform

Tue, 16 Dec 2025 05:59:00 +0000

Appearing before MPs yesterday, Keir Starmer bemoaned the ‘consultations, regulations [and] arms-length bodies’ that create ‘a thicket of reasons why you can’t do something.’ He was responding to a question from Dame Meg Hillier, the Labour MP who chairs the committee in front of which he

[City AM] Reform government would partially nationalise Rolls-Royce through ‘strategic stake’

A Reform government would partially nationalise Rolls-Royce as a quid pro quo for helping it ramp up its small modular reactor (SMR) nuclear programme as fast as it possibly can; its policy chief has said. In a wide-ranging interview setting out his party's plans for the UK economy, Zia Yusuf told C

[City AM] 'Picking winners? This is about backing champions' – Reform's Zia Yusuf on a radical approach to business

Tue, 16 Dec 2025 05:00:00 +0000

Reform has by any measure enjoyed an incredible 2025. But for much of the poll-topping year, its economic vision has remained an unknown entity. Ali Lyon met policy chief Zia Yusuf to hear, for the first time, his party's plans for Britain's flatlining economy and the millions of businesses in it. Zia Yusuf
